CONVENTION SPEEDS UP ITS WORK

STAUNTON WINS COMMITTEE O. K. FOR 1925 MEET

Many Reports Dealt With This Morning—Peery Makes Rousing Speech and Brigadier-General Martin Endorses National Defense Day.

Just before the morning session adjourned at one o'clock this afternoon Arthur S. Bell of Churchill Post Chairman of the committee appointed to recommend the next convention scene made a report from the committee. Two cities filed application for the 1925 event, Staunton and Hampton. A secret ballot was taken of the 19 members. The vote was Staunton, 12; Hampton, 7. The report will be acted on this afternoon.

Brigadier-General Charles H. Martin, of Washington, deputy chief of staff and General Pershing's personal representative made an address this morning before the Virginia Department, American Legion now in the closing phases of its sixth annual convention.

He made a strong plea for the general observance of National Defense Day on September 12th, pointed out the needs of such an undertaking and denied that it was in any sense a military gesture to which, he said, the pacifists have so strenuously objected. He termed the undertaking a common sense movement any merely a taking of stock of the country's defense resources.

The morning session of the convention was, as Commander Wicker predicted, "short and snappy." Several reports were called for and presented though none of these contained any radical suggestions. Good headway had been made in the programme when adjournment came early this afternoon.

A summary of what was done is as follows:

Adoption of the new Constitution as presented by T. J. Mickie of Charlottesville, with the thanks of the convention for his work in revising it. The adoption of the report of the Department auditor, M. E. Bristol, a legionnaire who did the work gratis for the convention. The Department has a $1,262 balance in the bank, the receipts during the year totalling nearly $20,000.

Presentation of the report of the Virginia Legion Hospitalization committee which outlines the work done by this organization and legionnaires to aid them and particularly to aid those cured and starting a new life. The committee is hopeful of putting this state obligation before the people so forcefully that Governor Trinkle will not again have to make a Christmas appeal.

Adoption of the report of E. E. Gentry, of Danville, department commander and now national executive committee member who presented an ample report on varied aspects of Legion activities. He believes that Virginia's membership in the Legion should be regarded as a source of pride.

Adoption of reports from the executive committees from the 1st, 2nd, 3rd, 5th, 9th and 10th districts with their recommendations.

Adoption of the report of the finance committee, presented by Delegate Henry Averill, urging that the dues of membership remain during the coming fiscal year as at present, that is $1 per year.

Commander Wicker this morning put his foot down hard and square on such efforts as have been made to host him for a national office at the St. Paul national convention.

While gracefully acknowledging the compliment he said that "I am absolutely not a candidate nor will be a candidate for any national office." While making this point clear in his customary decisive manner he paid a warm tribute to the press of the city for the best publicity given to any department convention.

One of the most interesting reports presented was that of the department commander, Patrick Henry described as the first one hundred per cent American is buried at Redlands near Altavista in Halifax county. The old plantation, the special committee investigating the desirability for a memorial discovered, is 1,600 acres in extent with the original home burned down some years ago. Cottage used by Patrick Henry still is intact and so is the hallowed acre where he and his loved ones are buried. The committee believes that the Legion should establish a permanent memorial there but Mrs. Harrison, the present owner, is quoted as asking for $100,000 as the purchase price. This is viewed by the committee as excessive and the suggestion is made that she be approached directly and not through an agent to see if she will consider a lower price.

The Yorktown Memorial Committee's report also was of interest. The committee has found the graves of 52 British soldiers who fell in 1781 when the British attacked a redoubt which they saved. It is recommended that a memorial be erected there and the action of the convention today was that this should be reared, the committee being committed with power to carry out the project.

Governor Trinkle arrived during the session and took his place on the platform. The presiding officer in formed the delegates that the governor danced last night and had been termed a "good sport" as he outdanced all the cake-eaters and seems in fine fettle this morning.

A noteworthy moment in the convention today was the tribute paid to a dead comrade. The morning paper denoted the death of Camp (Nep) of Edward Cole Withers, former policeman who died from disease contracted in the war. On motion by Delegate Harrison of Fredericksburg the convention rose and prayed silently for half a minute. A delegation attended the obsequies today.

Brigadier-General Martin was introduced at 11:30. He appeared as a typical American commanding officer and his message came straight from the shoulder. First he called on

EXTENSIVE BUS LINES IN VA. ASKED

TRINKLE LAUDS LEGION FILE PETITION TO JOIN EVERY CITY OF STATE

AMERICANISM IS NEEDED NOW AS NEVER BEFORE

Thanks Virginia Department in Name of People of This State

The exercises at the Fair Grounds last night in connection with the assembled Virginia legionnaires brought the high tide of enthusiasm which has been here. A parade witnessed perhaps by more people than ever turned out for such an event in Danville before started at Bridge street and marched to the grounds. A tour of the line of march just before the procession started revealed cars parked in a continuous line from far beyond the Fair Grounds entrance to Craighead street and on both sides of the street. There were two bands, the Stonewall Brigade of Staunton, one of the oldest bands in the country and given the post of honor by the Coast Defense band. Red flares marked the line of march and there were in line the resplendent silken flags of every post in Virginia also decorated automobiles.

The understanding had been that none should enter the grounds before the parade arrived. About a dozen persons however were admitted and found Professor Vezetti's concert band in immaculate white, parked in the center of a five acre space under dazzling lights ready for the arrival of the marchers. The first car contained the distinguished guests. Governor Trinkle, Mayor Wooding, Commander Wicker, Congressman Peery, Dr. Kate Waller Barrett and Mrs. Waverly Townes. Successive cars brought other officials of the Post. The parade was well managed and the legionnaires and auxiliary members filed into the stands and after they had been seated the general public was admitted. The band in the meantime gave its programme, the Staunton organization in their brilliant uniforms also playing and being warmly applauded by Vezetti's band the courtesies being exchanged when the Schofield orchestra swung into the slow cadence of operating selection.

All of the local national guard units in service were in the parade, these including the Tank corps and the Band. The commanding officers were presented to the governor and Commander Wicker in front of the stands.

Before the speakers were called upon announcements were read from the speaker's stand on the awards made for the best decorated cars in the parade. This committee was composed of Mrs. W. W. Townes, Bob Denny, adjutant of the North Carolina Department, and R. A. Tolson, of Washington. The 110th Hospital Corps which had a motor truck transformed into a display of service by that organization won the silver cup. The Willing Knight Motor Company won the second prize the Gardner Motor Company winning honorable mention.

J. J. Wicker's handsome expression of appreciation of what Danville has done for the American Legion in the convention was next given. He said that Danville was the most hospitable city in Virginia and that never before has the Virginia department been accorded the reception which has been given it as the 6th convention which is a record for legionnaires as the most successful ever held.

Dr. Barrett, a dominant figure in the national field of woman's service made a short but brilliant address. It was a virile message and delivered with conviction and a wealth of an of her honored years. Her ringing voice carried just as far as did that of Robert Denny, adjutant of North Carolina's department who roared out the prize awards just before she spoke. Dr. Barrett said that some of the greatest men of our time to forget their obligation to the service man and too prone to show irritation to their demands. She thanked God for Danville and Virginia which could produce such a mass of interested citizens. "It is an inspiration to come to Virginia and find it has not forgotten." Continuing she said: "I know the Legionnaires. I saw them when they left home, in the training camp in France, in hospitals and sanatoria, all suffering for their victory. I tell you they are the salt of the earth." In a later passage she exclaimed, "I tell you that the service man is here to remind you that the Battle of the Marne is still to be won on the Potomac. He is out to win the battle of political democracy."

Public men do not always like the legionnaires for they have a direct demand and do not hesitate to ask them awkward questions. Dr. Barrett said. The Legion has done the country a service she added in assuming an aggressive attitude on this matter. Another striking sentence of her address was that "Patriotism never dies in a country which recognizes its great public heroes." One of the most moving moments of the whole convention followed when the band struck up "Over There"—Cohen's war-time masterpiece which will probably outlive all of the other inspirational songs of the war. The stands took up the burden of the chorus and Commander Wicker, sensing the opportunity, directed a spontaneous chorus of possibly ten thousand people as they sang it. Governor Trinkle who was introduced by Commander Wicker as a sincere friend of the American Legion made no prepared speech. He added to the tributes already paid by

WICKER QUICKLY NAILS FALSE CONVENTION RUMOR

Commander J. J. Wicker, Jr., of the Virginia Department, presented matter on personal privilege on the floor of the convention this morning. What he said was, substantially, as follows: Last night at about midnight, an automobile proceeded up and down Main street, containing from fifteen to twenty men, behaving themselves unbecomingly and singing in a sacrilegious way "Nearer My God to Thee." A Danville citizen who was with Mr. Wicker expressed regret over the incident and that the boys should have behaved in that way during the convention. Commander Wicker made an immediate and personal investigation and found that not one of the men on the car in question were delegates, alternates, nor even legionnaires. "We don't allow behave like undertakers at our conventions," he added, "but we do know our duty as gentlemen and our duty to God."

KENDALL MAY TAKE STAND IN DEFENSE TODAY

Defense Claim Victory In Evidence Given By State Witness

(By The Associated Press.)
SPOTTSYLVANIA COURTHOUSE, Va., Aug. 27.—Spectators made a mad rush for the courthouse today in view of the possibility that Charles B. Kendall, twenty-four year old farmer, on trial for killing Dr. Robert L. Barrett, might take the stand in his own defense.

The second day of testimony began with both the prosecution and defense claiming important points. The state offered testimony that the physician charged with the murder of Kendall fired three shots at him and that after the former fell a fourth bullet was sent into his body. The defense claimed it had scored in the testimony of G. W. Biscoe, state witness.

Ratification of Rail Merger to Be Voted On Friday

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—Formal ratification of the "Nickel Plate" road merger engineered by the Van Sweringen interests of Cleveland will be voted tomorrow by directors of the Pere Marquette Railway company, the last of the five roads which will enter the new system to signify approval of the plan.

Chairman E. N. Brown, of the Pere Marquette, after a conference with O. P. Van Sweringen and bankers for the road, called a special meeting of the board to act upon recommendations of the executive committee.

Acceptance of the offer by the Pere Marquette virtually will complete the proposed consolidation which will bring more than 14,000 miles of railway into the eastern section of the country.

Directors of the present "Nickel Plate," Chesapeake and Ohio, Erie, and Hocking Valley railroads already have approved the terms.

Stockholders of the five roads will be asked simultaneously to ratify the merger and to authorize their action upon approval of the interstate commerce commission will be sought.

MEREDITH ELECTED

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 27.—H. L. Meredith, of Baltimore today was announced as the newly elected president of the national association of boards of pharmacy, meeting here in connection with the annual convention of the American pharmaceutical association.

Other speakers to Dr. Barrett whom Commander Wicker referred to as "the dean of American womanhood" as "the greatest woman orator in America." He said he came to express in the name of the people of Virginia their good wishes and their faith in the American Legion. He referred to the great battle before the Legion on the battle of Peace. Americanization, declaring that "this is a day when all must be real patriots and ready for sacrifice."

"America," he added, "is calling loudly to get out of the country or get under the flag." He emphasized meaning when he stated that today's publications are being printed in this country in 23 languages, their combined circulation being five million, the whole purpose of this literature being to destroy the government. He closed his address of about fifteen minutes with repeated thanks to the people of Virginia in the Legion for its work in making Virginia a purer state.

Major Harry Webb Farrington, the final speaker, recited one of his war poems "Cher Ami," the story of the American carrier pigeon which brought success to Major Whitley and which while bearing the glad tidings of the crossing of the Meuse by the Allies, was wounded in flight. The speaking program was followed by a liberal display of fireworks concluding in a violent and ear-splitting cannonade.

LEGION SPIRIT ONE OF SERVICE SAYS REP PEERY

Ninth District Congressman Lauds Purpose of State Organization.

Congressman Peery, of the 9th Virginia district one of the two Virginia congressmen who stood by the soldiers by supporting the adjusted compensation bill made the following prepared address towards the close of this morning's convention session. He spoke as follows:

"Mr. Commander, Ladies and Gentlemen of the convention: "I esteem it a great honor to be one of the recipients of your generous invitation, and to be privileged to bring greetings to you Virginia Legionnaires in your Annual Convention today. "A record replete with valor and achievement is just cause for pride on the part of any nation. A career marked by courage and unselfish and distinguished service is a priceless heritage to be left by any man to his posterity. We, the sons of the South, treasure with pride and affection, the record of our fathers, who with unsurpassed courage and devotion fought the battles of the Confederacy under Lee and Robert L. Ewell. It is not lessened by the fact that their service was not rewarded by victory but was rendered in what is now referred to as a 'Lost Cause.' "We owe the same debt to the men of the North the same right to reverence with pride the memory of the deeds of their heroic fathers; and they likewise glory in the record of valor and achievement which was passed on to them."

"To you, participants in the world war, comes the honor and distinction of having carried arms to glorious victory in the most stuporous war of all history—and you may pass on to your posterity a record unsurpassed in the history of the past and one, which it is hoped the future may not be called upon to equal. "As for me, I feel like standing at salute in the presence of the men who had a glorious part in the adventure and who with such wonderful valor and service helped to save the civilization of the world. "The World War arose and was fought under unusual conditions. Prior to 1914 the leading nations of the world cherished the hope and belief that a state of civilization had been reached where great wars would no longer occur. The nations of France where an advanced civilization had outlasted war. But a rude awakening came. The death of an obscure Austrian Prince kindled the flames; one after another of all the leading nations of the world were drawn into the conflict—and both victors and vanquished drank deep of the desolation, the sufferings and the sorrows of war. We are told that before the end came there was scarcely a home in France where a babe of mourning was not seen. We know to well that the ravage of death crushed hearts in many American homes. It does seem woefully strange that reason could not have asserted itself, and the world could have been spared this ghastly ordeal. But there was no rule or reign of reason in the crazed mind of a German Emperor and the military elenchy surrounding him, who were drawn into the vortex of world power and domination. When the challenge and insult came, there was no honorable course left to America but to meet force with force and to meet it without stint. And when the call it was not yours 'to reason why' but to respond to that call and 'do or die.' How well you responded to that call is now a matter of history and imperishable historicity. In two words, the declaration of war by our soldiers were in France. In scarcely more than a year more than two million sturdy American soldiers had landed in France, without the loss of a single man by ship conveyed by our men brought new hope to the war-worn soldiers of France, and gave renewed courage to the halcyon soldiers of Britain. The tide was checked with visions of world power and domination. Va. Legion Asked T oHonor Wilson

An invitation to Virginia Legionnaires to join with District of Columbia members of the American Legion in honoring the memory of Woodrow Wilson, wartime president of the United States annually on the eve of Memorial Day, May 30, was extended yesterday. The action was taken by Paul J. McGahan, past department commander of the District of Columbia department and its national commander, who is also premier historian of La Societe Nationale Des 40 Hommes et 8 Cheroux of which he was one of the founders.

"When President Wilson died," explained Captain McGahan, "the District of Columbia department was honored by an invitation to be represented at the funeral services by a delegation of three which I had the honor to head. President Wilson was a comrade of the American Legion having had great pride in his membership in George Washington Post No. 1 of our department when Washington was the first post to be organized in this country. It is a notable thing that all the floral pieces sent from all parts of the world to the funeral, the wreath presented by the national organization is the only one that has been returned to the Cathedral in Washington to be placed in the body of the war-time president is interred.

"On the eve of last Memorial Day, members of the District of Columbia Department of the American Legion made a pilgrimage to the tomb of President Wilson. There, in behalf of the members of the American Legion it was my privilege to place a wreath during the course of a simple but impressive service held in his memory. National reaction from this tribute to one who was certainly a notable victim of the World War was remarkable and has caused District Legionnaires to become convinced that this service at the tomb of President Wilson should become an annual event.

"We are inviting the co-operation of Virginia Legionnaires towards this end. We feel that annually there should be this service so that on the eve of Memorial Day when all join in honoring the heroic dead of the nation, there should be an outstanding event such as this to focus national attention to the Memorial services that will be held the next day in all sections of the country.

"The co-operation of Virginia Legionnaires and those from Maryland will enable us in Washington to make this annual Wilson memorial more impressive. The widow of the war president expressed her appreciation of our initial effort this year and is hopeful that year by year the pilgrimage to the tomb of Woodrow Wilson will become an event of increasing national importance."

OFFICIAL DEATH OF KLAN IN LOUISIANA

(By The Associated Press)

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 26.—Thursday night will be the last time in which the "klans" of Louisiana will meet officially as the Ku Klux Klan, the Times-Picayune will say tomorrow. After that date there will be no official organization of the Klan in the state, the membership being directly under the national headquarters at Atlanta.

Continuing the article says: "The anti-secrecy laws passed by the recent legislature requiring all organizations to file a list of their members with the secretary of state in December each year and which this year must show the membership from September 1, is the cause of the Klan deciding upon this course. The law requires the officials of an organization to file the list and the only penalty provided is against the officials who fail to make such sworn list. There are now no state officials these having been removed recently by Imperial Wizard Evans.

"The exalted cyplopes having continued as the official heads of the organization in each parish, but they will go out of office, so far as the law can reach them, after Thursday night. After that date when klansmen meet, they will just meet, that's all. They may still recognize their exalted cyplopes as such but he will not be recognized enough for the law to demand why he has not filed a list of members of his organization."

DAILY PUZZLE

Here is a checker-board of 64 squares. One square is marked X. Notice carefully the positions of the marked squares. The problem is to start at square O, and trace a course to square X that will pass through every square on the board, once only. The course may be made in any direction, up and down, across, diagonally and any number of turns may be made—but no square can be touched twice. Can you do it?

Yesterday's answer:

The man started with $45.96. He spent half and had left $22.98. The number of cents (.48) was the same as his previous number of dollars, the number of dollars (.24) one-fourth the original number of cents. He spent half of his $24.48, and had left $12.24, which fulfilled the same condition! When he spent half of $12.24, he had $6.12 remaining—the same conditions fulfilled—and finally he spent half of the $6.12 and had $3.06 left once more fulfilling the conditions!

REVOLT AGAINST POOL SEES MARKED REACTION

Business Men of South Boston Hold Mass Meeting and Pass Resolutions Condemning "Revolt" and Placing Blame Where It Belongs.

Marked reaction has been noted in South Boston as result of the so-called "revolt" against the "pool" which has found expression in the circulation of contracts among members pledging financial aid for an investigation of the organization, and asserting that the "pool" is injurious and not a benefit to the farming class.

So marked has been this sentiment that the business men of that town have seen fit to hold a mass meeting and to adopt resolutions condemning the "revolt" placing the blame for the disturbance where they said it belongs and washing their hands of the whole lamentable business.

It has been currently reported that retribution would be meted out to South Boston and that a movement already is on foot looking for the largest quantities of tobacco at Halifax.

The net result of the mass meeting and the public disavowal of any intent to hurt the feeling of the "Co-Ops" is contained in the following preamble and resolution which was adopted:

Whereas, an agreement called by a subscription agreement is being circulated in Halifax county by a committee of the tobacco growers of Halifax county, W. S. Holt, Jr., and W. L. Seymour, and

Whereas, the undersigned business men of South Boston, Halifax county, Virginia, believing that the said agreement is a direct attack on the Tobacco Growers Co-Operative Association to which many of the farmers of Halifax county belong, and

Whereas, believing that the aforesaid agreement is being circulated for an individual and selfish purpose, and an unwarranted attack against the tobacco growers and business men of Halifax county, and against the principle of good business and fair play.

Be it further resolved that we go on record against this agreement, and that this agreement was and is being circulated without the sanction of the business men of South Boston, and that the aforesaid agreement was originated and circulated without our knowledge or consent, and that we had, nor have any part in the origination or circulation of the aforesaid agreement.

Be it further resolved that we disclaim any responsibility for the actions of W. E. Hazelwood, W. S. Holt, Jr., and W. L. Seymour or any other person or persons who may be connected with the aforesaid agreement in any manner whatsoever.

Converted, Man Quits Attempted Jail Delivery

A story of how a prisoner, with dreams of freedom, saved night after night, for weeks, trying to get out of jail, was converted when a visiting evangelist visited the prison, then changed his work, and how he took the blame when a prisoner, not being discovered, was revealed here yesterday afternoon.

It will be remembered that several weeks ago, Jailer Nelson Dixon frustrated a jail delivery when he discovered that a prisoner, not being discovered, was revealed here yesterday afternoon.

great war. The governor is here but this will not deter the presentation of the report, it is learned from sources close to the committee. The resolution would not disturb the present corps of colonels but would be effective only when Governor Trinkle's committee was called to order.

The convention was called to order this morning at 9:15 o'clock, nearly an hour earlier than usual in order to dispose of the press of business before adjournment. There was barely a quorum present but Chairman Mickey of the Constitution and By-Laws committee was called to the platform and he continued the reading of the amended constitution and a set of by-laws. The Virginia department has not had a set of by-laws but has felt that the Constitution covered the ground.

Another interesting report presented during the day was that of the fourth district rehabilitation committee of which James A. Drain is the chairman. The committee during the past year was responsible for the approval of claims totaling $117,009.90.

One phase of the report dealt with the Soldiers' Cost. Assessors at Griffithsburg, Va., where an investigation was made of charges that the government was spending large sums of money for beneficiaries without equivalent returns. The bureau's contract with this organization has been discontinued and the department is now making its own arrangements.

Other hospitals within the realm of the committee are described as being efficiently managed special reference being made to the Soldiers Home at Hampton on the conduct of which congratulatory comment has been heard.

The afternoon session was called to order by Commander Wicker shortly after 2:30 o'clock. Rev. J. M. Roberson, of Lynchburg, chaplain of the department, offering the invocation.

Several more invited speakers remained to be heard from and these were given precedence before the consideration of any convention business.

First came A. G. Thomas, of Fort Monroe, who brought a message from the national headquarters, American Red Cross. This was a message to the department that the Red Cross is at the disposal of the department.

John Thomas Taylor, of Washington, vice chairman of the national legislative committee, was next introduced and he read a prepared statement to the Legion showing its activities in a legislative way since it was organized. Mr. Taylor's address is given elsewhere in this issue.

genuine success. A life that renders no service to the age in which it is lived is an unsuccessful life. The organization, of whatever nature, that does not have for its object the rendering of some real service had better never be formed.

"There is always the need for service. But, with the close of the war there was an imperative need for service which an organization, such as the Legion, could do more effectively render.

"The Legion is often referred to as an organization of ex-service men. I prefer to designate it an organization of service men. If membership is sought therein for any purpose other than the one of service, it falls short of the real object and the high privilege of such membership.

"To the post war problems affecting the service men, the Legion has applied a wise vision and a high standard of service.

"There were the comrades who had gone over sound in body, with eyes or limbs gone, hearing the words of darkness, and all hope of a future in this world gone. They went as heroes; they returned as heroes, but also as living martyrs to their country's cause. None could deny that these men were entitled to the most generous care and consideration that the government could accord to them.

The Legion has been one of the efficient agencies in seeing to it that this duty is faithfully performed. Hospitalization was provided for these maimed and disabled men and the Legion has been one of the agencies that has been available to all who were entitled to it.

"A recent press report of July 30, carried the announcement that a state Legion hospitalization committee had been appointed by the Virginia Department of Public Welfare, a committee which will have charge of the Legion hospitalization work in the state and whose duties are to visit, care for and provide for the comforts of the ex-service men in Virginia hospitals.

This committee is closely associated with a similar committee in the Legion Auxiliary which has been organized in this splendid work for the past four years. And then followed this gratifying commendation of the work: "Praise of the efforts of the Legion along the line of relief work for disabled veterans has been coming into the office of the Department of Public Welfare for some time. Regardless of the season, the Legion has been on the lookout for the comfort of all ex-service men in need of aid."

Your work in this connection is typical of what is being done by the American Legion for the disabled ex-service men throughout the nation.

"Another fine record made, and still being continued, is in the work of re-habilitation. The boy who, before the war, was a splendid craftsman, met with some misfortune and was left with a maimed arm. He could not, because of physical handicap, find employment, and he turned to the same products thereof. A grateful country owed to him the duty to restore him in so far as possible to his former self, so that he instead of being a burden upon his country, might become a contributor to the supporting citizen therein. There were others who because of impairment received in the service were unable to follow their former vocations who needed training in other lines of work.

To this work, and to the performance of this duty of restoration and training our government devoted its energies most heartily; and the results have been gratifying.

Director General Hines issued a recent statement to the effect that 67,000 had been rehabilitated along new lines. 32,000 of these were disabled by a result of wounds, suffered in the line of duty, and the remainder were disabled by continuing their pre-war occupations. These are being rehabilitated, trained and from time to time are being equipped and sent forth to find employment. The hand of the Legion will be extended to these men to aid them in finding positions and employment. It performs a splendid service in bringing the service men and prospective employer into contact with each other. The spirit of the Legion is one of fraternity and mutual helpfulness.

"It seeks to keep alive the spirit of fellowship and the bond of brotherhood which grew up between you as comrades in arms—None but you can know its depth and the fullness of its meaning. It is the call of your country, your friends and native land, braved the dangers of the ocean, infested with the lurking submarine, took your place in the ranks, endured the hardships of trench life, and faced the dangers of gas and shot and shell and death itself in 'no man's land'.

"Such an experience of travail and suffering and service, sealed the bond of comradeship and brotherhood between you in a way that it will last as long as life itself lasts. It is meet and right that your organization should keep alive and maintain the splendid traditions of this splendid service so that they may be kept inviolate for this generation and be handed down to all the generations yet to come.

In the spirit of helpfulness and service, the sponsors of all the beneficial legislation that has been enacted in behalf of the veterans. Some of it no doubt would have failed but for the work of the Legion. After a memorable and stubborn fight an adjusted compensation measure, carrying the approval of the Legion, became a law over the presidential veto at the recent session of Congress.

Anna Q. Nilsson a Fighter

By JACK JUNGMEYER

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 27.—Many picture celebrities check and sidetrack the interviewer in his efforts to pry into their less glamorous yesterdays. This probing might jeopardize the carefully constructed facade of grand aristocracy, of bruited wealth, family, station, by snobs regarded essential for adulation.

Anna Q. Nilsson, stately, vivid daughter of Vikings, takes one back to the best fields of her native Sweden to substantiate her present personality with the experiences of flaxen-haired girlhood.

She elected to reveal these, her yesterdays, over the luncheon table set under a peach tree on her ranch adjacent to Los Angeles.

She told without pride or embarrassment, of having danced with her hands; of having weeded gardens and run errands for Swedish nickels and pennies; of having served as lady's maid in New York; of her introduction to pictures from the model stand of famous actresses.

"Business Woman"
The point to all this self revelation is that Anna Nilsson from early girlhood deliberately cultivated a business acumen which has made her a remarkably successful screen personality. That she was self-reliant instead of fastidious in shunning the world in the world to attempt the role of a man. Miss Nilsson scored exceptionally in that.

But she goes her own way. Never uneasy. Never uncertain. The blue eyes which are sometimes like summer lakes can also glint like the raw cold of a glacier. Anna Q. is a fighter. Folk who believe as thoroughly in themselves as this virile daughter of Sweden, and who have her talent, her democratic faith, need no pose or affectation.

"Village girls returning to Sweden from the United States in silk and fine clothes decided me in going to America, where money was plentiful. I own elastic conscience and whose wealth increased by leaps and bounds because of her conditions.

"I gave voice to an argument of that kind. As good Americans, the result of that fight should be gracefully accepted by both sides to the controversy.

"Again the Legion stands for patriotism.

"That there is a spirit of unrest and discontent abroad in the world is admitted by thoughtful men. The Legion is being arrayed against class—or according to the modern term, bloc against bloc. Selfish interests are being more efficiently organized. There are murmurings of discontent and protests against the established order of things. The standard of our government is being assailed by some.

And amid these currents and cross currents we sometimes wonder what the end may be.

"But believing as we do that the heart and spirit of the great body of Americans are fundamentally sound, we believe that we will weather the storms that now beset us. And while we wait for the coming of a new day, we should not be content until the wrongs are righted. It behooves us at all times to cultivate and broaden and deepen a spirit of patriotism, which has been and always should be one of the great anchors in time of national stress.

"Love for our native land—yes, greater than ever before. She has ever held aloft the torch of liberty, and offered the bow of promise to the oppressed peoples of the world.

"We are proud of her that as a struggling colony she has the valor and courage to resist the oppression of an English king, and achieve her own independence.

"We are proud of her that in later years she said that Spanish tyranny could no longer be visited upon the island of the sea near our shores. We are proud still that she in the face of a Prussian Autocracy and through you and your comrades has helped to save the civilization of the world.

"And with the close of this great struggle, with all its sorrows and memories still fresh in mind, there comes to you in common with us all a peace time duty worthy of our highest thought and most earnest consideration.

"That duty is to make our own beloved America, the leader of the way for nations of the world, into the paths of an enduring world peace.

"The people of the world are groaning under the weight of the nations. In our own country far more than half of the huge sum collected as taxes by the Federal Government from our people is used to pay the cost of past wars and the expense of maintaining our naval and military establishments in preparation of future wars. The same fact is true of the other leading nations of the world. The statement in itself is a terrible indictment of the civilization of this age in which we live. That more than half of the more than three billion dollars collected in taxes by our National Government each year must go to pay the cost of past wars and the expense of keeping ready for future wars brings us forcibly face to face with the sum of the Christian nations of the world today.

"War is the most costly thing of all. It costs money, but its greatest cost is in human life. We were told that near the end of the World War the armaments of the nations were being destroyed and perfected by the use of which the inhabitants of great cities could be destroyed almost in the twinkling of an eye, and that of another world war occurs in which the forces of evil are loosed without limit, making the physical destruction of civilization. It must follow that the one supreme need of the nations of the world today is some workable plan for the prevention of war.

remained for a time with friends, then went away to become a personal maid in a prominent New York family.

Someone is always trying to discourage Anna Q., as Hollywood abbreviates her name. Picture veterans tried to talk her out of doing the "Demmons" role in "Ponjola." "Anna," they said, "you're the last woman in the world to attempt the role of a man." Miss Nilsson scored exceptionally in that.

But she goes her own way. Never uneasy. Never uncertain. The blue eyes which are sometimes like summer lakes can also glint like the raw cold of a glacier. Anna Q. is a fighter. Folk who believe as thoroughly in themselves as this virile daughter of Sweden, and who have her talent, her democratic faith, need no pose or affectation.

"I insured popularity."

leading nations of the world, some league or association which will afford some substantial hope that international disputes shall be settled by peaceful means rather than by war.

"The hope of all the ages has been that the time would come when war would be no more. That hope has been intensified by the sufferings and experience of the recent years. To bring it to fruition and to practical reality is the greatest problem of the nations of the world today. For its solution I implore your most serious thought and earnest consideration.

"God of the Nations be with us yet. Let us forget, lest we forget."

Globe Birdmen May Be Delayed By Bad Storm

(By The Associated Press)
ST. JOHNS, N. F., Aug. 27.—The American round-the-world fliers may be prevented from hopping off to Iqviut, Greenland, for Indian Harbor, Labrador, tomorrow morning, if a severe storm which is sweeping over New Foundland today continues and extends toward the north, according to marine experts who declared today that the storm area seemed to be moving toward Labrador.

The storm appears to be one which swept the Atlantic coast yesterday. The marine experts say the fliers will probably find it impossible to set out for Labrador until the weather changes.

PLANE WRECKED IS DESTROYED BY FIRE TODAY

Motor and Instruments of Demolished Ship Removed Before Burning

The deHavilland airplane from Langley Field piloted here by Lieutenant H. D. Smith and Sergeant Fred Hopper, which was wrecked on landing near Gardner's farm early yesterday afternoon, was purposely destroyed by fire this morning.

The Liberty motor was removed and the instruments on the ship were removed after which the torch was applied and soon the demolished plane was little but smouldering embers. This is frequently resorted to by the government when ships crash or are disabled beyond repair far from their base. The engine and parts salvaged will be shipped by train to Langley and the two aviators will go back by train to Langley on receipt of orders from their commanding officer.

The mishortune which befell one of the two ships sent here for stunt flying during the Legion convention was not due to careless handling. The ship piloted by Lieutenant Smith and in charge of Lieutenant Bradshaw and Private Calambacis flew over the city to find a good field and finally spotted that near Gardner's farm. Smith came down to a low altitude for the purpose of getting a closer view of the field and while near the ground his gasoline engine choked and the engine stalled. Nothing was left for him but to make a forced descent and he tried to negotiate a smooth landing. However one of the rubber tires on the wheel of the undercarriage burst on hitting the ground and this slewed the moving ship round until it fell into a ditch. The gear was stripped and the wings so badly damaged that no repairs could be made. Both men in the ship were strapped in and suffered nothing more than a bad jolting. Lieutenant Bradshaw had better luck in the same field and landed a short time later safely.

The fliers came to Danville in an hour and fifty minutes, flying at 30 miles an hour and following their maps. They got here at 11:10. Lieutenant John Collins who was here several days ago from Langley Field crashed his plane at Bristol, according to one of the airmen now here. It is reported that he overshot his landing field the plane being destroyed.

The deHavilland, one of the airmen said this morning, is too heavy a plane to permit looping the loop but the stunt flier this afternoon is to do some side slipping and tail spins for the education of the city and its visitors.

Boils

THERE is a reason for everything that happens. Common-sense kills misery. Common-sense also stops boils! S.S.S. is the common-sense remedy for boils, because it is built on reason. Scientific authorities admit its power! S.S.S. builds blood-power, it builds red blood-cells. That is what makes fighting-boils. Fighting-blood destroys impurities. It fights boils. It fights pimples! It fights skin eruptions! It always wins! Mr. V. D. Schaaf, 557 15th street, Washington, D. C., writes:

"I tried for years to get relief from a bad case of boils. Everything failed until I took S.S.S. I am now absolutely cured, and it was S.S.S. that did it."

S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

KENDALL'S TRIAL AT LAST STARTED

(By The Associated Press)
SPOTTSYLVANIA COURT HOUSE, Va. Aug. 26.—Prosecution witnesses in the trial of Charles B. Kendall, charged with the murder of Dr. Robert L. Powell on a county road near Granite Springs last May 17, related to the jury today a story of how the twenty-four-year-old Spotsylvania county farmer pursued his victim, firing as he ran and then standing over him shot again and again after the doctor had collapsed and fallen by the roadside.

During the testimony of five eye witnesses and twelve others Young Kendall sat alert attentive but apparently unmoved as acting commonwealth's Attorney Goodrich began weaving a web of evidence by means of which he plans to show that the shooting of Dr. Powell was a premeditated, cold-blooded murder deserving a death penalty.

Two of the eye witnesses who took the stand today, Mrs. Nellie Pemberton and her son Edna described how they approached the scene of the shooting in a motor truck just as the firing began. Dr. Powell was running down the road and crying for help. Mrs. Pemberton said while Kendall pursued, revolver in hand, Young Kendall fired three shots while running, the witness swore, and then shot the doctor again after he had fallen by the roadside.

"I shall never forget it," she said, visibly affected by her recital. "As we came nearer in the motor truck I shouted to Charles, 'For God's sake don't shoot any more.'"

"What position was the doctor in when the last shot was fired?" Senator Goodrich asked.

"He had fallen down," Mrs. Pemberton testified. "He was lying on his back with his arms outstretched and his legs apart. He was dead when we found him."

During cross examination by Harry Smith of Richmond and W. W. Rutner of Fredericksburg, defense counsel, Mrs. Pemberton remained unshaken in her version of the affair.

DURHAM MAY LOSE LEAD

DURHAM, N. C. Aug. 26.—The local baseball club may lose its top position in the standing of the Piedmont League clubs through the filing of a notice of protest by the Greensboro team on the games in which Pitcher Lankenau and outfielder Albert Thompson are alleged to have played with the Durham team without getting through the formality of signing contracts. The notice of the protest has been received by William C. Branham, president of the league.

According to Mr. Branham, High Point will take similar action. The management of the club has written President Branham for the number of games in which the two men played with the local team. Action is expected to be followed by protest from all other clubs of the circuit who lost games during the period of participation of the two players.

UNITED STATES LEADS WORLD AS EXPORTERS
LONDON, Aug. 26.—Figures issued today by the board of trade show that the United States leads the world's exporters in the first quarter of the year with 2,500,000 pounds sterling ($11,250,000). Great Britain was second with 1,900,000 pounds, France was third, India was fourth and Germany was fifth.

Great Britain was the largest importer, with 262,000,000 pounds ($1,210,000,000). The United States was second with $94,000,000. France, third Germany fourth.

Great Britain and France and the United States exported more goods in the first quarter of this year than in any similar quarter in the past two years. Every civilized country whose figures were given show an increase in exports over last year.

The United States and France have a balance in favor of exports. The reverse is the case of Great Britain and Germany.

BEST PITCHED GAME OF SEASON SEEN AS LEFTY ENDS DANVILLE'S STREAK

Stimulated by the superb pitching of Joe Westnedge, the Danville baseball team got back sufficiently of its batting punch to smash out two runs off the good pitching of Werts while the Twins were being blanked.

The crowd of some 40 or more people grew enthusiastic as the tall, rangy young left-hander retired the visitors in order, and when in the seventh inning he struck out three of the Twins best batters, the pitcher was given a great hand.

Absolutely the only thing like a base-hit the Winston batsmen could get off Westnedge's benders was a single to center in the second inning by Thompson, after two were out. The ball got through the fielder and enabled Thompson to reach second where he was stranded. The brilliant young pitcher seemed to reach his best form about the opening of the fifth inning when he fanned Mahoney and Thompson, and Myers by the great stop of the same retired Inman.

Besides his bewildering breaks and his speed, the hurler had a change of pace and proved unhitatable. His steadiness was noteworthy, the only base on balls being awarded to a misplay by the umpire.

That was the general impression. Despite his error on the first Winston batsman, Staley played a great game on second, handling ten chances same of them very difficult and doing it admirably. One of his plays was particularly brilliant. He fielded a snatching what seemed labeled for a hit up behind first base and retiring the hitter. Pulliam at short field tied with Staley and Myers in stellar work one of his stops of drive by Smith being handsome. He accepted ten chances without a wobble.

Danville scored in the fourth inning on hits by Staley and Myers with a sacrifice by McDonald sandwiched in. In the sixth Monroe new out-felder and the Smith in addition to a misplay, singled, swiped second and registered when McDonald singled.

Cubs Lose to Giants; Pittsburgh Divides With Phillies

SENATORS SPLIT DOUBLE BILL WITH BROWNS AS YANKEES REMAIN IDLE

(By The Associated Press.)
NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—Less than a quarter of the season remain in the race for the pennant by the Yankees. Yesterday they were a few points ahead of the Washington Senators, who were a few points over Detroit.

Washington split a doubleheader with the St. Louis Browns in the capitol yesterday, losing the first game 7 to 0 and winning the latter 6 to 2. The Yankees are scheduled to play at New York and the Tigers at Boston tomorrow.

Urban Shocker, pitching ace of the Browns, held the Washington club to five scattered hits in the first encounter while St. Louis nipped three Washington twirlers for eleven safes.

In the second engagement, Oden of the Senators was never in trouble. He allowed eight hits, but kept them well scattered while his team mates were collecting eleven safe blows from Danforth.

Connie Mack's Athletics won a hard fought twelve inning game from the White Sox, 4 to 3. Joe Hauser, Philadelphia first baseman, getting his twenty-first homer of the season off Faber.

It took five Giant pitchers to turn back the hard hitting Cubs in a wild jamboree in which both teams hit hard and often. The Giants getting 20 safes to the Cubs' thirteen. After they had scored six runs in the first

For the Game's Sake

By LAWRENCE PERRY

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—From Alabama, there comes to the writers proud boast of most interesting and unique nature. It is claimed that the University of Alabama is the only seat of learning in the country which has produced an all big league line up. So far as the writer knows, the claim must stand undisputed. At any rate here is the Tuscaloosa roster.

Ernie Wingard, St. Louis Browns, pitcher.

Luke Sewell, Cleveland, catcher.

Luke Rosenfeld, St. Louis Browns, first baseman.

Derrill Pratt, Detroit, second baseman.

Joe Sewell, Cleveland, shortstop.

Riggs Stephenson, Cleveland, third baseman.

Vierdo Elmore, St. Louis Browns, center field.

Lena Styles, Athletics, rightfield.

Rosenfeld and Elmore signed after college this summer and Styles, who has been with the Athletics several years, is now in a minor league, the International. It is said.

The big leaguers named above were not only students at the University of Alabama at one time or another but are all products of native Alabama soil.

Stephenson by the way was all-Southern full back for three years and Sewell Rosenfeld, Boone and Pratt all played on the varsity eleven at various times. Pratt being a start punter and drop-kicker.

Wallace Wade, the University of Alabama coach, says that the material this season for a strong eleven is excellent and he expects the Crimson tide to reach high mark in the South this year.

Laugh This One Off!

How you feel when you collect only $15,000

You'd laugh boisterously, too, if someone promised to give you $50,000 to fill a glove date with an English heavyweight, especially a soft one like Jack Bloomfield. And you'd frown plenty if the said promoter paid you only $15,000 of the promised amount after the fight. That was Tommy Gibbons' recent experience in London.

The Sportsman

By WALTER CAMP

(Copyright, 1924, by The Bee.)
NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—If this week's play at Forest Hills for the national singles title should end in the annual struggle of the two "Bills"—Big Bill Tilden and Little Bill Johnston—the result would be not only logical, but vastly pleasing to the great crowd of tennis enthusiasts.

Little Bill demonstrated at Longwood last week that he is in better shape than he has been for a long time, that his strokes are working, and better than all this, that he is not worn and nagged for a hard campaign.

It was a great treat for the Longwood crowd to see that set between those two knights of the court, and each showed flashes of remarkable brilliancy, while both were under a bit of a pull not to be too serious.

It was brilliant tennis at times and yet Big Bill seemed to have just a shade more behind him. But when he walked off the court a winner at 5-6 Tilden remarked "If they say Bill Johnston has gone back, I should remark that I did not notice it in his play today."

The Longwood tournament was indeed well run and more than fairly run. The best sign was that foot faulters and official glares had quite subsided before the final days. Of course neither Howard Kinsey nor Vincent Richards like to be foot faulted at critical moments but they took it well. There were some doubtful calls on the line, but they were accepted without exhibitions of resentment and on the whole the official staff under Irving Wright did its job well. George Wightman and his Longwood officials are to be congratulated.

Hornsby Has Hit .692 In Week

(By The Associated Press.)
ST. LOUIS, Aug. 27.—Since starting on a batting spree here a week ago in a game with Philadelphia, Rogers Hornsby, the Cardinals' slugging second baseman and leading major league hitter, has hit safely in ten straight games and collected twenty-seven hits in thirty-nine attempts, for a total of sixteen runs. During the past week, three double headers were played.

Of these hits, Hornsby has driven out six homers, bringing his total for the season to twenty-two, and eight doubles and one triple.

In yesterday's game with Brooklyn he scored three of the four runs scored by St. Louis, driving out one homer and three doubles off Grimes in four attempts.

His week's average of .692 is thought to be a world's record.

Last Wednesday and Thursday Hornsby obtained thirteen hits in fourteen trips to the plate, in the four games played. He had hit safely nine straight times when he was stopped on Friday by Pitcher Nehf, of New York.

AWARD PRINCE BOOBY PRIZE AT DANCE ON SHIP

Wales Dresses as Apache and Delights Passengers With Dance

(By The Associated Press.)
S. S. BERENGARIA, Aug. 27.—(By Wireless to the Associated Press.)—The Prince of Wales was awarded the "booby" prize for his costume at a fancy-dress dance held in the ball room of the Berengaria last evening.

It had been stated that his royal highness would not appear in costume but at a late hour he entered, making up to represent an apache.

There was repeated cheering when he and a lady dressed as a boy received the booby prize doll.

The prince wore a saucy cap and sweater turned inside out, in imitation of one of denizens of Limehouse, London's Chinatown.

The masque was a brilliant affair, the beautiful costumes and costumes of many of the women lending magnificence to the scene.

Wales appears to be enjoying the voyage thoroughly and is winning the golden opinions of the other passengers by the spirit with which he enters into the games and other amusements. For his part he is delighted over the attitude of his fellow travelers giving him unopposed freedom from special attention.

Wales practiced twice yesterday with his tug-of-war team which is to compete with a team composed of Americans. The latter outweigh the prince's team but have offered to adjust weights so as to equalize things.

The prince, at 1:30 a. m., boxes, exercises, and promenades the deck vigorously. He has a cheery greeting for the newspaper correspondents who seek him out and altogether appears happy and carefree. Occasionally he has a private poker party in his own suite, but he is generally out revelling in the fresh air and sunshine.

Local Co. Among Those Praised For Camp Work

(By The Associated Press.)
RICHMOND, Va., Aug. 27.—A number of units of the Virginia national guard have been especially commended for their work at the summer encampments now taking place at Camp Meade, Md., and at the other camps in the State.

General Joseph Lemassure, today expressed himself as highly pleased with the guards showing.

Battery E, Lynchburg, and Battery F, Roanoke, 24th artillery received special commendation for their work at the summer camp at Ft. Monroe, August 1-15. Major John C. Henderson, inspector, Captain Alonzo E. Wood commands the Lynchburg unit and Captain Erskin L. Hill that from Roanoke.

Ambulance company 110, Norfolk and hospital company 110, Danville, made particularly fine showing at Carlisle barracks, Pa., July 12-26. Col. Lemassure was told by an inspector at that encampment.

The 23rd tank company of Danville also was praised by the commanding officer at Camp Meade, Maryland, who told Colonel Lemassure that the work of this unit had been of a very high order.

Reports from the remaining encampments held this summer by the Virginia national guard have not yet been received, the acting adjutant general declared, but he expects many other commendations and is highly gratified at the work of the units at a close and active adjutant.

There was good showing by the Virginia units on mobilization day, September 12.

Candidates Not Eligible If They Are Klansmen

(By The Associated Press.)
LITTLE ROCK, Ar., Aug. 27.—Any candidate for office in Pulaski county who submits his or her name in a preferential primary "in a lodge, Klan or other secret organization," will not be permitted to have his name placed on the official ticket in a democratic primary in the county, under a resolution adopted by the county democratic convention.

The resolution offered yesterday by Donald K. Hawthorne, a local attorney, referred specifically to the Ku Klux Klan.

The resolution appealed to citizens of Pulaski and other counties in Arkansas to unite in "casting the Ku Klux Klan out of the Democratic party and forcing it to come out in the open, under its own colors as a Ku Klux Klan party instead of seeking to hide its identity within the folds of the Democratic party."

Prominent Men of Mobile Charged With Conspiracy

Borkin, promoter and real estate man, are the defendants who expect to go on trial tomorrow.

The government charges that the defendants be tried today as agents of Mobile dealers and attempting to bribe M. T. Gonzales, a federal prohibition agent, for the purpose of obtaining federal protection for the sale of liquors.

MAY AMEND VA. BLUE SKY LAW AT CONVENTION

Shands Outlines Features of Legislation In Urging Changes

(By The Associated Press.)
RICHMOND, Va., Aug. 27.—In connection with the convention of the National association of securities commissioners which meets in Richmond September 16-18, Wm. R. Shands, head of the securities division of the state department of commerce, today outlined the features of the Virginia blue-sky law which the commission believes to be in need of amendment.

The Virginia blue-sky law, designed to protect the public from the sale of worthless securities, is based on the old style laws, Mr. Shands said, and there are some features now out of date due to the fact that legislation of this type is constantly changing. The commission is hopeful that one result of the convention here next month will be amendment of this law at the next session of the general assembly.

"The feature of our blue sky law most in need of amendment," said Mr. Shands, "is the provision that all contracts made in violation of the law are voidable at the option of the purchaser of the security."

This works a hardship on those who sell securities in good faith, in cases where there may be doubt as to whether the sale of a particular security falls under the law. This difficulty is caused by the classification of certain securities as speculative and bringing those securities within the provisions of the law and leaving all others exempt.

"Since the commission's duties in connection with the law are purely administrative and since the determination of whether any security sold in the state falls under the provisions of the law is a question that can be finally determined only by the courts, it is impossible for the commission to assure any one that any particular security does not fall within the provisions of the law."

"Thus, the seller incurs a risk, unless she wishes to make up a test case. As a result, the question of whether an individual to determine, except where there is no doubt that the security concerned comes under the provisions of the law, in which case the seller is advised to comply."

"This difficulty can be remedied," he continued, "by the requiring all securities to be listed before allowing them to be sold in Virginia, dividing them into certain classes and giving the commission power, subject to an appeal, to determine what class any security belongs to."

The amendment, Mr. Shands declared, is in line with the majority of the state laws in other states. He cited the case of Alabama which formerly had blue sky laws similar to those now in force in Virginia but which were subsequently amended. The first blue sky law in Virginia was enacted in 1915.

McLeod Appears Certain Winner; Dial Is Defeated

(By The Associated Press.)
COLUMBIA, S. C., Aug. 27.—With a total vote approaching 170,000 reported from yesterday's Democratic primary in South Carolina, it seems certain this morning that Governor Thomas G. McLeod has been renominated to succeed himself as governor and that U. S. Senator N. B. Dial has been defeated for renomination.

A second race for the nomination for U. S. Senator with former Governor Cole L. Blease and Representative Byrnes as the contestants, virtually is assured.

Governor McLeod is credited with 46,763 votes against 6,428 for John T. Duncan, his only opponent.

With returns reported from 1,123 of the 1,254 voting precincts in the state, Blease is leading the senatorial aspirants with 6,486. Byrnes follows with 14,806 and Dial is in third place with 26,183. Insurance Commissioner J. J. McMahon, finished fourth in the incomplete returns with 4,108. The returns included a portion of the vote in every county.

Pres. Coolidge Will Return to Capital Friday

(By The Associated Press.)
PLYMOUTH, Vt., Aug. 27.—President and Mrs. Coolidge plan to go to Rutland, 25 miles from here, today to have luncheon with Governor Proctor of this state.

This is the first time they have left the home of the president's father since coming here on their vacation except short drives about the countryside.

Governor Proctor saw the president shortly after his arrival. Plans for the trip have been carefully guarded and it was not until this morning that the arrangement became known.

Tomorrow night the president and his family will leave for Washington where they will arrive early Friday morning.

Yesterday Mr. Coolidge announced the appointment of Edgar Addison Bancroft of Chicago, as ambassador to Japan and of Rockwell Sheffield of New York City as ambassador to Mexico, filling the two major vacancies in the diplomatic corps.

SENATE GIVES HERRIOT VOTE OF CONFIDENCE

(By The Associated Press.)
PARIS, Aug. 27.—By virtue of the Senate's approval last night Premier Herriot now is fully empowered to sign the London agreement and do everything necessary to put the Dawes plan into effect, as the chamber of deputies previously sanctioned his course by voting its confidence Sunday morning after an all night session. The vote in the Senate, which came after a long debate, was 206 to 40.

M. Herriot and the reparation commission now are awaiting the vote in the German Reichstag before taking further action, but in view of the weakening national opposition, little doubt is felt here about the German acceptance of the final signature of the agreement on Saturday at London.

The Belgian cabinet has already given its ratification without bringing the matter before parliament.

Race Boat Sinks In Trial Run

(By The Associated Press.)
DETROIT, Aug. 27.—The first accident to mar the events in connection with the gold cup regatta scheduled here starting Friday occurred last night when the Woodfish, a 33-foot runabout speedboat owned by Edsel Ford was sunk while making a trial run over the official course.

The boat, which was entered in the sweepstakes, sank following a collision with another entry. The pilot was rescued after suffering slight injuries. The sinking of the Woodfish leaves Edsel Ford only one other entry, the Nine Ninety Nine, which won the speedboat tests at Miami, Florida.

New Outbreak In China Reported

(By The Associated Press.)
SHANGHAI, Aug. 27.—The Shun Pao, a leading vernacular newspaper, received a dispatch today reporting an outbreak of warfare between the forces of Chi Shieh-Yuan, military governor of Kiangsu province, and General Lu Tung-Hsiang Tsuchan, of Chekiang province.

The outbreak occurred at Quinsan, near here, on the line of the Shanghai-Nanking railway. As a result of the armed clash, traffic on the railroad between Shanghai and Nanking has been interrupted.

BERLENBACH AND YOUNG STRIBLING FIGHT TONIGHT

(By The Associated Press.)
NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—Paul Berlenbach of New York and Young Stribling, 20-year-old Georgia boxer will meet in a six round bout at the Velodrome athletic club here tonight. The bout, originally scheduled for the mid-fall benefit, June 26, was postponed because of an injury to Berlenbach.

Stribling, who has been at Saratoga Springs training with Firpo, returned yesterday and weighed in at 168 pounds, two pounds under 170 called for in the fight agreement, while Berlenbach weighed 166.

Stribling is the favorite due to his newspaper decision over Mike McClellan, light heavyweight champion of the world, at Newark, March 21.

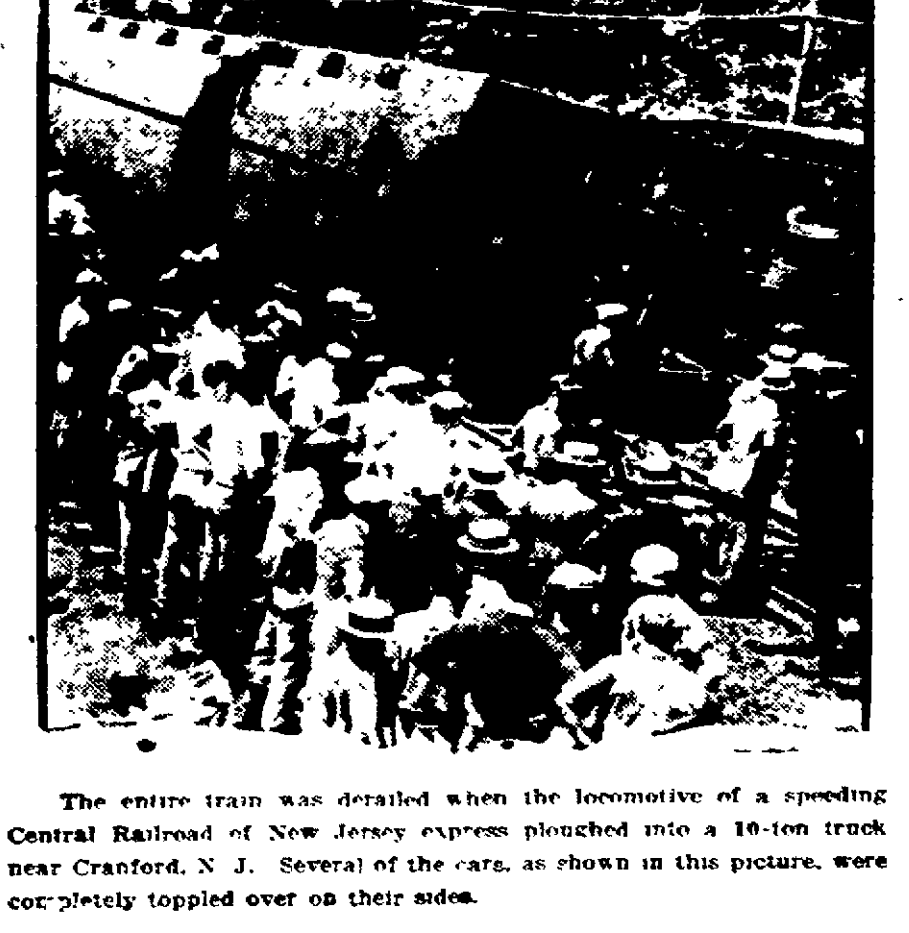

The bout is curtailed because of the state law prohibiting bouts participated in by minors going longer routes.

Stribling had been bothered by a summer cold for about a month, it was learned today, but he declared he had no worry on this score.

The cold had caused coughing spells during heavy workouts, he admitted, but he had not been bothered in this respect for the past few days. Observers at the weighing-in agreed that the youthful boxer appeared in excellent condition.

Berlenbach declared he also was in excellent condition and was faster and boxing better than ever.

The Havoc Crash Wrought

The entire train was derailed when the locomotive of a speeding Central Railroad of New Jersey express ploughed into a 10-ton truck near Cranford, N. J. Several of the cars, as shown in this picture, were completely toppled over on their sides.

Everyman's Investments

(Copyright, 1924, by The Bee)
Sixty-second Article
Speculation in Foreign Exchange

In the last article in this series I named some of the considerations affecting the investment ratings of foreign bonds. There are still things to be said along this line. The first is that to buy a foreign bond payable in a foreign currency involves an additional uncertainty in that the currency of other nations ever since the world war have lacked stability as compared with the dollar. To a degree a foreign government bond payable in any other money than our own is a speculation in foreign exchange. For most people this is inadvisable.

There are plenty of foreign issues payable in dollars and traded in daily on the New York Stock Exchange to which this speculative feature does not attach. As a rule also the dollar bonds of foreign countries do not fluctuate over so wide a range as do sterling or franc bonds. It is very important to keep this distinction in mind when estimating the risk involved in a foreign security. Taking the case of Germany, for instance, there is no possible comparison between the mark bonds of German municipalities and the proposed international German loan, the American portion of which will be payable in dollars and interest in American currency to be entirely sound and a desirable investment and a bond of the same government payable in its own currency to be speculative in the extreme.

Secondly there is the matter of diversification. No matter how attractive a foreign security may be no one is justified in putting all his funds into any one investment. He should not even put all capital property available for foreign investment into any one foreign obligation. By diversifying the sum the risk is spread out. It is wise to diversify not only as between the different nations of Europe but as between European and South American investments.

Political developments are not likely simultaneously to affect securities so widely separated geographically. Within these limitations there can be no objection to putting a proportion of one's funds into good foreign securities and such a course will substantially increase the income upon the whole.

(Mr. Hughes' sixty-third article will appear in The Bee next Saturday.)

MORNING STOCK LETTER

(Courtesy Thomson and McKinnon.)
NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—In the thousand issues that make up our stock list it would be surprising if you could not at any time find weak spots and one element here regards it more important to hunt for the weak rather than the strong points, while others are engaged in the business of building. It takes all kinds to make a world, but I want to say that with all due respect to the judgment of those who prefer the bear side of the market that the conditions we have do not favor a bear market. Reaction is not a very pleasant thing, especially severe, but there is so much merit in the long side now, business improvement seems so absolutely certain to me that it is not for the political campaign before us I would care ignore reactions. But you can't ignore it. I am afraid of it and I think it is going to give us a good many worries during the next two months and highly irregular markets.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

(By The Associated Press.)
NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 27.—The cotton market today opened firmly, mainly on much better advice from Liverpool than due, although continued reports of crop deterioration helped the advance, October and December soon were 31 and 27 points respectively above yesterday's close. The market eased off somewhat after the call on report of showers in Texas and on fears that the weekly weather report might not be as unfavorable as expected yesterday, and October receded to 24 1/2 and December to 24 1/2, 13 to 25 points below the opening highs.

HOLLYWOOD IS GOSSIPING OVER NEW "SCANDAL"

Dainty Actress Reveals Everything Regarding Her Marital Troubles

By TED LEIBERTHOFF
(Copyright, 1924, by The Bee)
LOS ANGELES, Aug. 27.—Anecdotes by John C. Howard's statement in connection with their marital troubles, that he never laid a hand on her, dainty Ora Carew, screen and vaudeville star, displayed documents purporting to prove that the young son of the millionaire "Salad Dressing King" once admitted having struck her so sharply that he broke her nose.

Howard's name, together with his wife's, is signed to a "confession" of the nose breaking incident, which is supported by the statement of a Hollywood physician certifying that on July 21, 1923, Mrs. Ora Howard was seen by him and found to have suffered a fracture of the nasal bones. The fracture included also a septal cartilage.

Other instances of physical violence are listed in the alleged joint statement, in which the actress agrees to continue as Howard's wife "upon his promise to not in any manner repeat any of the matters referred to."

Some of the other "admissions" referred to include an admission that Howard had accused her of too friendly relations with other men and that these accusations were untrue and without foundation. Also, his promise not to associate with other women.

Pathetic notes reflecting harsh domestic strife, said to have been written by Howard after two attempts at suicide were also brought forward. The reproachful Ora, who further disinterested significant letters written by Howard to his parents.

One of these stated that Howard had signed his wife's name to a thousand dollar note and that he loved her, but had abused her.

Another of the notes is said to have been written after he is alleged to have taken verbal in Hollywood a couple of months ago, following a quarrel. This episode caused considerable comment in the local news.

A man said to be Howard was given radical remedies for venereal poisoning at the Receiving Hospital and the entire story was denied next day by Howard.

"I went through this once, but can not again," said the note, addressed to "Our Little Girl." "Follow your desires, forget me, but remember that in my way I loved you. There is no mistake this time. I am going thru with what was foisted last night."

When the family of John F. Howard, the salad king of Haverhill, Mass., was summering in Hollywood in 1922, Ora Carew met the son and they were married at Miss Carew's Hollywood home in December.

Their honeymoon took them to Hawaii where Howard, Sr., gave his son twenty thousand dollars to start in business with. Bride and groom signed a promissory note.

But Howard, says the star, showed decided aversion for work and instead took her to New York where they lived at the Claridge. There, she alleges Howard embarked on a hectic career of spears and often struck her.

Discouraged, she went to San Francisco, with the young husband following, and signed a better movie contract. Her husband opposed her resumed movie career unless she got him a contract with the same company. She says that when she was unable to do so, he locked her in a room and gave her a terrific thrashing, the climax of which was her broken nose.

"I will spoil your face so no one will ever want to see you on the screen," she says he screamed.

After another thrashing, Howard returned angry and disheartened, going on a debauch which culminated in a suicidal attempt. She explained her silence, dated by her wish to save Hollywood another scandal.
